

The Brooklyn College Marge Career Center for Career Development and Internships announces the

Marge Magner Summer Internship Honoraria Up to $4,000

Applications Deadline: May 6, 2011

Marge Magner, class of '69, through her generosity, is providing cash awards of $4,000 to qualified Brooklyn College students doing internships relevant to their career interests and who demonstrate financial need. As a firm believer in experiential learning, Marge Magner is enabling Brooklyn College students to earn money while gaining invaluable professional skills.

The Magner Honoraria are a series of several cash awards to help students to accept off-campus, volunteer or low-paying internships.

- Undergraduate and graduate students will be awarded funds based on the number of hours and weeks that the student works at the internship position site.
- Applicants must have completed all application materials and have obtained an internship by May 6, 2011
- Magner Career Center (1303 James Hall) can assist you in obtaining an internship.
- Academic departments may also be able to provide referrals.

Important note: Brooklyn College faculty or staff should not be a principal officer of the internship organization or have a substantial ownership interest in it.

International students need to first contact the Office of International Student Services, before applying.

Awards will be granted on the basis of:

- The appropriateness of the internship to a student's career goal.
- The rate of pay from the internship position.
- The degree to which the award will assist the student.
- The academic record of the student (minimum 3.0 GPA).
- For the some awards, the financial circumstances of the student will be considered.

How to apply

- Please fill out the application form on the reverse side of this flier.
- Return the application form and all required materials to 1303 James Hall by Friday, 5/6/11.
