

Preparing for Virtual Fairs and Interviews

Virtual Career Fairs and Interviews are becoming increasingly common. Follow this page to help you prepare for your next virtual interview or job fair!

Virtual Job Fairs

A virtual career fair has many similar elements as in-person fairs. Some virtual fairs may allow you to speak with employers one-on-one, others may be a series of mini info sessions. All of which have the same goal: to recruit high-level talent and fill open roles! No matter what type of virtual fair you are attending, it is very important to prepare for these fairs, make a good first impression and maintain a professional relationship.

Our virtual fair guide (below) details tips, advice and additional resources for virtual fairs.

RESEARCH

Take time to research the companies that you are interested in working with. When doing your research focus on the following: who the employer is, their mission, open positions (PT, FT, Internships) and current projects. The more knowledge you have about the company, the greater your success will be in the virtual fair process!

- Do your research by viewing the list of attending companies and what they are hiring for. Generally, you will receive this by email or for the Magnier Center fair go to tinyurl.com/brooklyncollegecareerfair.
- Research the company on their main website.
- Use Glassdoor.com, LinkedIn and Vault to do research on the companies as well.

It is just as important to prepare for a virtual fair than it is preparing for an in-person fair. You should be preparing your elevator pitch and resume for the fair.

You should be preparing your elevator pitch and resume for the fair.

- Review the Resume and Cover letter guidebook to get your resume job fair ready.
- Practice your elevator pitch to introduce yourself to recruiters. Use the below to help craft your pitch:
  1. Include your name, and major
  2. Explain what position you are looking for (if you know)
  3. Explain why you would be an asset (highlight your values/experience/academic background and how to connect to those of the company)
  4. If appropriate: Ask the recruiter a question about their company or program based on research you have done

NETWORK

Networking, or developing meaningful relationships, will help you enormously in your job search.

The recruiters you meet at a virtual fair are great to add to your network! Follow these steps to ensure you give a first impression to recruiters.

- Show interest, smile and give good eye contact during your elevator pitch.
- Thank the recruiter for their time and consideration.
- Jot down notes about your conversation.
- Don't forget about any follow up steps they suggested.
- Send a thank-you email to the recruiters you met.

APPLY

In order to land the job, you generally will need to apply via the employer website; however, remember that the goal is to get a referral to a job, which will yield the greatest result. After applying for roles, let the recruiter know you applied via email (this can go in your thank you email).

Remember, the resume and initial pitch gets you the interview and the interview gets you the job! Do not underestimate the power of practicing answers to questions before the interview. Use our Interview Preparation to help you practice.

Virtual Interviewing

Virtual interviews are becoming more common. There are two different types: asynchronous and synchronous. An asynchronous interview, or a pre-recorded interview, is when you answer prompted questions - you usually have a few days to do this. Some softwares used include HireVue and TopPick. Synchronous interviews are when you interview with a member of the HR team in real-time, this may be on Zoom or Google Meet. Essentially the expectations and recommendations to prepare are not different than in-person interviews. Below we have compiled recommendations based on recruiter's tips from the Brooklyn Navy Yard as well as our own.

BEFORE THE INTERVIEW

- Do research on the company, position, culture, and any other important information.
- Prepare 2-3 questions you want to ask.
- Find a quiet space where you will be uninterrupted.
- Verify your mic, camera and internet connection are working properly.
- Use a plain background in your house, if you can not, download and set-up a basic background.
- Make sure you are comfortable with everything listed on your resume.
- Dress like you are meeting someone in person.
- Practice being on camera! Record yourself answering questions to see what you look like. As they say, practice makes perfect.

DURING THE INTERVIEW

- Treat the interview like you would in person - be professional and show interest.
- Ask the interviewer for a phone number or email to contact them in case you get disconnected.
- Be mindful of your body language and the narrative you are portraying – sometimes it is harder to interpret people over webcam.
- DON'T multitask (those texts can wait!).
- Show eye-contact. It can be a little weird speaking to someone via webcam so look at the camera and the screen.

AFTER THE INTERVIEW

- Follow up thanking the interviewer for their time by sending a thank you email.
