WELCOME TO THE 2022 SPRING SEMESTER!

The Journey Continues...

What are 10 things Every Pre-Law Student Should Know?

- Connect with the Prelaw Program
- Search for Financial Aid
- Begin networking
- Keep a journal of experiences and observations
- Research law schools early and determine your best-fit law schools
- Make sure your professors know you (visit during office hours, speak up in class, and attend class)
- Select a major of study that you enjoy
- Get involved around campus and the student club community
- Meet law school deadlines

Put Your Research to Work...

1) U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics Sample Data!

*Newly Updated: Diversity Pipeline Program Directory: The AccessLex Diversity Pipeline Program Directory has been recently updated to include information on nearly 60 pipeline programs! Students can use this tool to identify pipeline programs serving college students and/or college graduates from historically underrepresented groups. Easily search by region, enrollment classification, program duration, and program features to help your students find the right program for them. Click: Try it out today!

*Law School Application Tip: Admissions applications are typically reviewed on a rolling basis. Some law schools even offer early admissions deadlines. Plan your LSAT preparation and test-taking date accordingly. The sooner your application materials are complete - the better. Apply early, if possible!
